- 1 When did the person write the card?
- a) On the first day of the holiday.
 - b) After they arrived back home from holiday.
 - c) On the last day of the holiday.

Dear Sandra,
 How are you? Greetings from sunny Capri. I bought this card on my first day here but there hasn't been any time to write it until now. We're leaving this afternoon and mum and dad are packing our bags so I finally have a few minutes free. I haven't got a stamp, so I'll probably have to send it when I get home. But I was thinking of you!
 Love,
 Harry

Jenny,
 Hi, I hope you enjoyed the school trip. A quick question. This summer, I'm going on a two-week Italian course in Verona. It's not very expensive and I'm going to live with an Italian family, which will improve my Italian. I know you're going to Italy in August. Do you want to come to Verona with me in July? I have to know soon so write back today or tomorrow.
 Lisa

- c) is apologising.

It was my birthday today and my boyfriend forgot! That's right, no present, no card, no phone call, nothing. I told him about five times that my birthday was April 10th. Maybe he didn't listen. Maybe he didn't care. When he found out (I rang him!) he said sorry but it still hurts. Maybe I'll feel better if he buys me a present tomorrow. I'll let you know.
