Craig's journey

I'm now in Istanbul. The journey from Athens was slow – two days on a ferry. I didn't have a room. I slept outside with about twenty other people. Luckily it didn't rain. The temperature was very pleasant at night but the days were too hot and there was nothing to do on the boat. We stopped at a few islands but I didn't get off – I was worried about missing the ferry. Istanbul's huge. I can't believe how noisy it is. There are cars everywhere. I'm staying in a hostel. It's not very nice but there are some great people here. They've told me what to do, what places to visit and where to eat. Last night, I went to a restaurant with two Australians, Andrew and Liz. They were very friendly and wanted to go dancing after the meal but I was too tired after the journey. They're still asleep so I don't know what time they got back this morning.

- 1  While Craig was on the ferry the weather was hot and dry.
- 2  Craig likes the hostel very much.
- 3  Craig didn't go dancing with Andrew and Liz.

Hi Steve,
I've been invited to Scotland to spend a week river fishing. It's next week. I'm sorry I didn't tell you about it earlier but the people organising it aren't very good at sending emails. Still, I can't complain because it's for free. Anyway, the question is, do you want to come with me? I can take one person and I know you like fishing. Let me know as soon as possible.

In Bath I'd recommend city tours. This tour includes entrance to the famous Roman baths as well as a walk around the rest of this wonderful city. The tour starts at 10 a.m. and lasts about three hours. The best thing is that they limit the number of people. Not thirty (like in London), not even twenty but just twelve people at one time so you will always be close enough to hear everything and the guide will have time to answer all of your questions.

2 How many people can tour Bath each day with this company?

- a) 12
- b) 20
- c) 30
